

2020 ANNUAL REPORT

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE DAVID BERNHARDT

Representing the new world, growing things, this year was a beautiful surprise. The beauty, caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, was the resilience of our nation's water and environmental resources, which the citizens and the government have shown a great capacity to respond to. The pandemic has shown us that we have the capacity to respond to a crisis, and we have the capacity to respond to a crisis.

During the pandemic, we have seen a great capacity to respond to a crisis, and we have the capacity to respond to a crisis. The pandemic has shown us that we have the capacity to respond to a crisis, and we have the capacity to respond to a crisis.

The importance of our nation's water resources has been shown to the world. The importance of our nation's water resources has been shown to the world. The importance of our nation's water resources has been shown to the world.

Water is our lifeblood. It is the foundation of our nation's water resources. Water is our lifeblood. It is the foundation of our nation's water resources. Water is our lifeblood. It is the foundation of our nation's water resources.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service

2020 FINANCIAL SNAPSHOT

Departmental Financial Data
Fiscal Year 2020
$1,000,000,000

The financial snapshot shows the 2020 operating revenue and expenses. The revenue is the total amount of money received by the agency. The expenses are the total amount of money spent by the agency.

YOU MADE PRINA SUCCESS

Each year we report on our accomplishments. The 2020 report shows the success of our programs. The success of our programs is the result of the hard work of our staff and the support of our partners.

In 2020, 100,000 members of the public took action to protect our rivers. The success of our programs is the result of the hard work of our staff and the support of our partners.

100,000 MEMBERS

In 2020, 100,000 members of the public took action to protect our rivers. The success of our programs is the result of the hard work of our staff and the support of our partners.

100,000 MEMBERS

In 2020, 100,000 members of the public took action to protect our rivers. The success of our programs is the result of the hard work of our staff and the support of our partners.

PROTECT WATER.
HEAL LAND.
INSPIRE CHANGE.